This is a massively important article to understand if you want to get the timeline right. These scientists were scheduled to meet with Trump March 27, 2020. Someone at the White House stopped the meeting.

X ...

I know the timeline just as well as anyone, if not better.

March 27, 2020 was too darn late. If official data can be trusted (and I've already said it should NOT be), the NYC mass casualty event was already well underway.

I seriously do NOT understand why you repeatedly ignore the New York issue.

No one (esp not me) is asking you to do an investigation.

There is MORE than enough [unpaid, independent] work that has been done on that front, whether by me or colleagues

Heck, BI even republished our Nov 2023 article.

Seriously @jeffreyatucker: what in the WORLD is going on that you say NOTHING about the need for biggest non-war mass casualty event in U.S. history to be substantiated? Who or what is being protected here - and why?

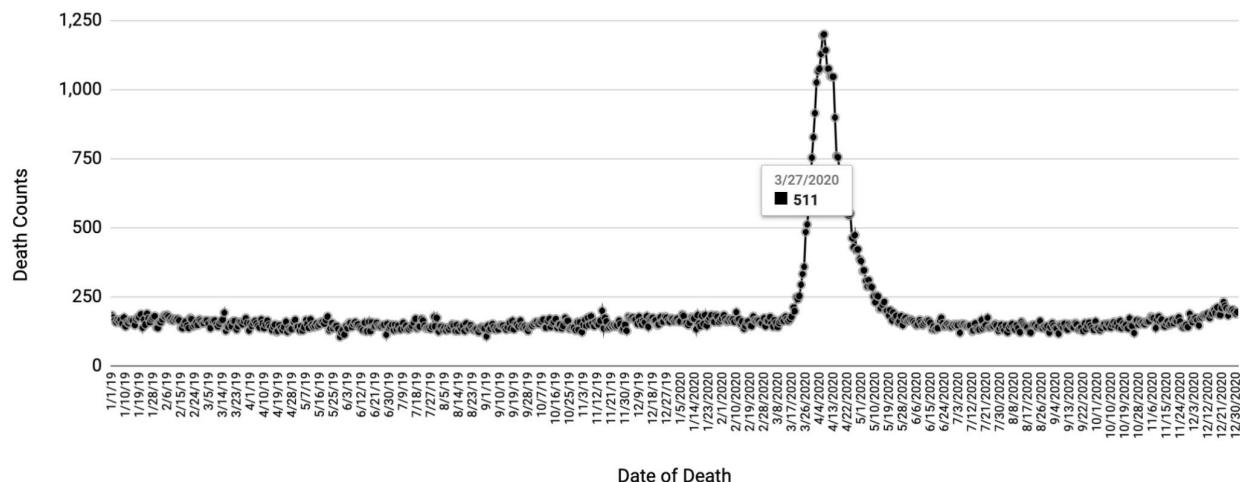

I cannot believe it's been 5 years and I have to beg for attention on this critical AND ABUNDANTLY OBVIOUS issue.

This is WELL within your area of interest/focus. It is neither superfluous nor tangential. Enough is enough.

The turning point of all things -- public trust, crime, longevity, border security, health, economic vitality, and population-wide incredulity toward all elites -- was the global pandemic response. And yet, there is precious little public talk about it. I find that amazing.
